SON OF PIONEER DIES IN THE CITY

DEATH OF W. O. RALSTON RECALLS FAMOUS DAYS AT BELMONT ESTATE

W. C. Ralston, who passed away in San Francisco Tuesday, spent his boyhood on his father's estate at Belmont. The father, the late William C. Ralston, was one of the greatest financiers the state has ever produced. He lived in a little advance of his age. He built the Palace Hotel, at a time when such an institution had vision. He knew that time would demand such a hotel. His spectacular career ended with the crash of the California Bank, of which he was the president. His beautiful home at Belmont was the show place of the peninsula in the seventies and early eighties. It was the setting for many gay parties, nobility and foreign potentates and the leaders of society of San Francisco were entertained there by the gracious host who delighted in gathering about him youth and beauty. Mr. Ralston was a splendid entertainer and was lavish in his expenditures in providing for his guests. Ralston became angered at the Southern Pacific Railroad Company on account of some slight offense if offered him. He vowed he would not ride in its cars. He established a relay of horses between Belmont and San Francisco. Every morning he would meet the eight o'clock north bound train at Belmont with a beautiful four-in-hand turnout and on arrival of the train he would dash forth in full speed to the city, changing rigs at Millbrae. Ralston invariably arrived in the city before the train. This was kept up by the noted fancier for a number of years. Young Ralston grew to manhood surrounded by these scenes and under this environment. He was quite clever but did not inherit those wonderful gifts of his father. In later years he won honors through the reputation of his distinguished parent rather than by his own merits. The late Senator C. N. Felton was a personal friend of the elder Ralston and when the former became U. S. Senator he secured the appraisership of the port of San Francisco for his friend's son. In the early days Ralston and Felton could be seen arm in arm every morning in the San Francisco stock home became the property of William Sharon, the millionaire mining man and U. S. Senator of Nevada. In the home established he established the noted beauty, Sarah Althea Hill, who afterwards brought suit to recover a large sum of money from the senator, but failed in her attempt in the supreme court. At the time the case drew nation-wide attention. All the participants of the noted law suit have passed away, including the beautiful woman, who died in an insane asylum. Later the home became the Gardiner sanitarium. Recently the property was bought by the sisters of Notre Dame of San Jose who have established a school for girls there.

Town Trustees To War on Ants

The trustees of Redwood City were urged at their last meeting to inaugurate a campaign against the Argentine ant. The matter was drawn to the attention of the board by Mrs. D. E. Graham, secretary of the local board of health. In her communication to the board, Mrs. Graham stated that the matter is receiving the attention of the State Board of Health, which has requested that each local board of health take the necessary steps to eradicate the ant, which has proved an unmitigated pest during the past few years.

Mrs. Graham presented a list of several reliable poisons that have been used effectively against the ant, and stated that for several years the city of Hillsborough has been successful in its fight against the pest by using a formula of its own. It would be possible to secure this poison said Mrs. Graham, at the rate of fifty cents a can. An offer was made by the representative of a Los Angeles firm to supply poison to the city in large quantities for twenty-five cents a can.

Chase Littlejonn, local naturalist, urged the board to take immediate action, and destroy the ant before it was too late. Littlejohn spoke of the damage done by the ants and told of their destruction of other forms of life. Birds were being destroyed, he said, by the attacks of the ants which actually eat the young birds alive. Even setting hens have been eaten alive by the swarms of the ferocious pests which cover them in a short time.

The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the board and in the mean time it will be given the earnest consideration of the members

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ADDRESSES CLUB

District Attorney Franklin Swart was the speaker at the meeting of the Burlingame-San Mateo Exchange Club, Tuesday noon at the Portola Hotel, Burlingame. Judge Walter L. Bird was the presiding officer and a large gathering of citizens which included representatives of various women's organizations, all of the county officials and business men of all sections of the county.

Mr. Swart outlined the duties of a district attorney and described the calls that are daily made on an official's time. He pointed out that offense, but showed that the right kind of an official would know all of the facts before he would try to have a man convicted and sent to the penitentiaary. A letter from a man serving a life sentence in San Quentin who was sent from the superior court of this county was read and excerpts from other communications were quoted.

Mr. Swart also touched upon the matter of the granting of franchises and paid particular attention to the Webb bridge. He also paid his respects to certain interests that were very active at the time of the Webb bridge hearing and in unmisfakable terms told his opinion of such tactics as were used by the said interests.

Mr. Swart's remarks were listened to with keen interest and brought forth much applause.

JURY FREES YOUTH ON AUTO CHARGES

W. R. Perry brought here from Los Angeles under charges of embezzlement preferred by the Clifton Motor Company, is now a free man and stands aquitted of all charges. Perry entered into a contract to purchase a second hand car from the local motor dealer, and paid a deposit of forty dollars on the 9th of December. He was to have paid another deposit on the 20th of the same month, but his work took him to Los Angeles on the 14th of the month, and he had no money to make the second payment. According to statements made by Perry he was expecting his pay on the 9th, and was going to pay for the car at that time.

An embezzlement charge, however, had been placed against the youth, who was brought to this city from Los Angeles on the 3rd of January. He was given a jury trial Wednesday and acquitted. Both Perry and Clifton acted as their own attorneys in the case.

SEQUOIA GYMNASIUM DEDICATED

The new Sequoia High School gymnasium was dedicated by the 130 and unlimited basket-ball teams Thursday in a double header against Palo Alto. The fortunes of war were against the local lads and although they played heady games, the breaks all seemed to be with the Palo Alto players and both games went to the College City. It is to be regretted that the opening games of the new building should have both been lost, but the locals have nothing to regret as they played wonderfully fine basketball and should have had more points to their credit.

Bill Church, former Nevada athletic star and former team mate of Jim Bradshaw referred both gomes and his decisions were at all times fair to both sides.

DIED IN REDWOOD CITY

CORONER'S JURY FINDS SHOOTING UNAVOIDABLE

An inquest conducted at the parlors of the Layng & Tinney Undertaking Company last Monday over the body of Archie McKendry resulted in a verdict of justifiable homicide. McKendry, a rancher of the southern end of the county was shot in an affray with members of a sheriff's posse under Sheriff McGovern, when the officers tried to capture the rancher who had become violently insane.

The posse was summoned by neighbors of the unfortunate man who had seen him set fire to his barn and then barricade himself in his house, from which he defied anyone to remove him. The call at the sheriff's office was received at 8:30 last Friday night, and was immediately responded to by Sheriff McGovern, Deputy Pete Laracou, Officer McAuliffe of the Redwood City police department, and Constable James Logan with Deputies Parker and Lehaney.

Upon arrival at the scene of the excitement, the posse found McKendry in his house armed with an automatic revolver and a stiletto, with the former of which he defied the officers. Not wishing to use their own guns on the crazed man they sent to San Francisco for gas bombs with which they hoped to capture him alive. Before the bombs arrived, however, McKendry sallied forth, and with his stiletto proceeded to cut the cushions and [illegible] upon McKendry and called him to surrender. He, however, instead of surrendering, began to advance towards the officers with the pistol in his hands. The officers then fired several shots over McKendry's head in an effort to frighten him, but without effect. He continued to advance toward them, and seeing that the man was too violently insane to be frightened into surrender, and that their own lives were imperiled with the automatic which he held, one of the posse shot McKendry in the thigh. McKendry fell to the ground when shot, and McAuliffe and Laracou rushed upon him, and with difficulty, for he still fought viciously with the stilleto, managed to subdue him. With the aid of the remainder of the posse, the man was bound and taken to Huling's hospital. Here he died Saturday morning.

An investigation by the coroner disclosed that McKendry's death was caused by the loss of blood from the wound, which was not in a vital part, and was due to the insane struggle which the man continued in until released by death.

The funeral took place Tuesday, and was strictly private, interment was in the Oak Hill cemetery in San Jose.

Further investigation by the police on the premises of the unfortunate man led to the discovery of large quantities of ammunition in his house and some in the pockets of his automobile. The latter circumstance has led to the conclusion that it was he who has been doing the mysterious shooting which has been reported by motorists on several occasions in nearby territory. On several occasions, it is reported motorists have been shot at on the Middlefield road, one report comes from Santa Clara of shots being fired at cars and once in the Santa Cruz moutains several motorists narrowly escaped accident when shot at by some concealed person.

NEW MINISTER CALLED

The officers and members of the First Congregational Church held a congregational meeting at the close of the Sunday morning service and accepted the resignation of Rev. Roland B. Dodge as pastor of the church. Mr. Dodge had been granted a year's leave of absence but decided that he would not care to have the trustees of the church hold the position for him for that length of time.

The members then unanimously extended a call to Rev. R. J. Currie of Wyandotte, Michigan, to become pastor of the church. Mr. Currie was in Redwood City during the first part of January and was pleased with this section. He was notified of his call by wire and he immediately wired his acceptance and has promised to begin his ministry here on the first Sunday of March.

Rev. Dodge expects to be able to leave the Mills Memorial Hospital by February first. With Mrs. Dodge he will then go to Los Gatos, where he will remain until he has recovered from his injuries.

ROAD MATTERS RECEIVE MOST ATTENTION OF THE SUPERVISORS

The matter of securing rights of way for the fourth unit of the Skyline boulevard, which is to extend from the present San Mateo-Halfmoon Bay road to the Kings Mountain road, was taken up by the board of supervisors at their regular meeting last Monday. H. A. Mason of the Joint Highway District was present and addressed the board on the subject. Mason stated that many of the property owners were willing to give the right of way, provided that the present road, the Redwood Park road, which covers the same territory be abandoned. Supervisor MacBain presented a resolution arranged by Mason, declaring it the intention of the county to abandon the present road upon the completion of the new highway. The resolution was passed.

Application was made by Col. Frank Leslie of the Base Hospital for permission to build a spur track to the hospital from the tracks of the Southern Pacific Company. E. F. Oswald, superintendent of the buildings and grounds of the hospital was present and outlined to the board the route proposed for the spur track.

The proposed track would meet the main line of the S. P. near the Carnduff ranch at Menlo Park and would follow Willow road and Bay road. Supervisor MacBain stated that he would like to go over the route first and assure himself that it would not interfere with traffic on the county roads which it was proposed to follow.

V. Arata, who at a previous meeting had made application for permission to raise hogs near Belmont, now appeared and asked that the petition be withdrawn, which was accordingly done. Later a protest against granting the petition, and signed by a number of Belmont residents, was received and filed.

The condition of the highway between Finger creek in Redwood City to the Davies Machine Shop, near Vera avenue was called to the attention of the board by Supervisor MacBain. He said that he had taken the matter up with the district attorney, and that it was his opinion that the expense of putting the road in repair would have to be borne by the county. The cost he estimated would be approximately $5000. The county surveyor was, therefore, instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the resurfacing of the highway between those points.

Harry Robinson, a representative of the Rateree Brothers, San Francisco realtors, appeared before the board to secure permission for his firm to lay a pipeline in the Visitacion Valley. The matter was laid over until the next meeting.

An order was received from the Superior Court of the county asking the supervisors for a list of thirty names for the grand jury. Another order asking for 100 names for trial jurors was also received. Both orders were filed.

A report of Mrs. Wm. Tavelle, superintendent of the new county hospital, showed the following figures: Patients, 177; births, 8; deaths 14; patients on December 31, 46; pay roll $6,762.29.

The above report was for the time from which the hospital opened on September 1 to the end of the year. The report adds that of the number of patients admitted 97 were free cases, 33 paid part of the expense and 47 paid the full cost.

A report was received from the County Veterinarian showing $296.15 to be the amount collected by him in the month of December.

The sum of $400 was granted to County Auditor J. J. Shields for the purpose of issuing the statistical report for the year 1923.

Just before the close of the meeting Supervisor Francis reported on the matter of securing the right of way of the Ocena Shore railroad for a highway. Francis reported that many of the owners of the land were willing to donate the land, and he advised that immediate action be taken to have the necessary surveys made.

Jesse Rapley Dies At Age of 84

Death overtook Jesse Rapley, pioneer resident of San Mateo county, last Monday, at the Huling hospital, where he was taken after a paralitic stroke suffered some time ago. The deceased was one of the oldest living pioneers of this section of country. Jesse Rapley was a native of Canada, but came to Redwood City as a boy. At the time of his death he was almost 84 years of age.

As a boy Rapley had worked at various jobs in the stores of Redwood City, later he devoted himself to farming and got one, and then two ranches near La Honda. Here he worked tirelessly at ranching, and was a familiar sight to the old timers of Redwood City, as he piloted his six-horse team over the old La Honda grade into town. Later he owned one of the first threshing machines in this section, and would go from ranch to ranch with the machine around harvest time.

The deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Elkerenkotter of San Mateo, with whom he has been making his home for the past few years, and he also leaves two sons, James D. Rapley of Menlo Park and Maurice Rapley of La Honda. Sixteen grandchildren of the deceased also survive. His wife, Mrs. Catharine Rapley, died about seven years ago.

The funeral of the late pioneer was held Thursday from the chapel of the James Crowe Company, thence to Mt. Carmel Catholic Church where services were held. Interment in Holy Cross cemetery at Menlo Park.

CHANGE IN BUSSES MAKES ROAD SAFER

PROGRESS MADE IN CORRECTING PENINSULA MOTORING CONDITIONS

Through the co-operation of traffic and peace authorities, bus line officials and the California State Automobile Association, much progress is being made toward eliminating conditions which have been a constan tsource of complaint from motorists on the San Francisco Peninsula road, officials of the Public Safety Department of the Automobile Club announced yesterday.

Officials of the larger bus lines have promised to co-operate with the Automobile Association in correcting conditions which have led to speeding and improper driving methods on the part of bus drivers. Definite steps have already been made in that direction, it was announced yesterday. Further progress is expected as the result of a conference of bus line officials and other interested parties to be called in the near future by Percy E. Towne, chairman of the Automobile Association's public safety committee.

As a culmination of the public safety campaign which was begun on the Peninsula highway some months ago by the Automobile Club in cooperation with traffic inspectors of the Division of Motor Vehicles, seven bus drivers were recently given suspended jail sentences by Justice of the Peace Ay Griffin of Redwood City. The action followed a plea of guilty entered by the driver's attorneys in all seven cases. The sentences which vary from one to five days will become effective if any of the drivers in question are again found guilty of traffic law violations within six months in the territory under Judge Griffin's jurisdiction.

Judge Griffin told the Automobile Association that he believed such sentences would put an end to excessive speeding in his territory. This policy means that the operator must serve a jail sentence for a second offence within six months, besides the possibility af an increased sentence for the second violation.

Officials of the Peninsula Rapid Transit Company told the Automobile Association that they have appointed a traffic inspector who rides in their buses in plain clothes and checks the driving methods employed by the operators. They have announced that they will not retain in their employ any driver who violates the law. Routes of various bus lines have been revised so that drivers will not leave terminals at the same time and race each other in competing for pick-up business.

Further plans for improving the conditions heretofore prevalent in Peninsula highway will be worked out at this conference to be called soon by the Automobile Association.

PARENTS TAKE NOTICE

Four lads that we have known for a long time who hadn't any business to be out on the streets so late were apprehended in wrong doing this week and as a result two of them will spend some time in Whittier. These boys are not really bad at heart but they got into mischief and then got a little further along and now they must suffer the consequences.

When we come down to the fine point of the thing they will not suffer the consequences as much as their parents will. These boys should have been kept at home or at least their parents should have known where they were. There are too many things surrounding the youth of today to allow him to have his own way in all matters. Times have changed in the last decade and boys should have something to keep them occupied. The devil will always find work for idle hands.

It has been a long time since local boys have been in any real trouble and we hope that it will be a long time before it happens again. Parents should be on the watch to see that their boys are not in mischief.

LENINE DEAD

Nicolai Lenine, head of the Soviet government of Russia, died at his home outside of Moscow, Monday night. Lenine had a varied career. He was the son of a nobleman but all of his tendencies were socialistic. Consequently he did not reside in Russia after he had attained maturity. For years he resided in Switzerland. On the collapse of the Russian monarchy he returned to his native land and became a virtual dictator.

He inaugurated the soviet form of government and by his determined action has kept the reins of affairs in his hands. At long range it has seemed that affairs in Russia were in a deplorable condition. Returning travelers however, report that Russia is in more than a fair way to build up a stable government and that the people are again becoming satisfied with conditions. It is also apparent that Lenine had the love of the people.

It is easy for us, with everything we want, to criticise affairs in Russia, but any man who could bring order out of chaos as Lenine did, and at the same time retain the love of the people, must have been a really great man.

THE DAYS OF A MAN

Last Saturday we told of the birthday of two great men who have lived and worked in our country. There was another we should have mentioned but we did not at that time know that Saturday was his natal day. The two that we mentioned have long since gone to their reward. This man is still with us. He is Dr. David Starr Jordan. We delight to do him reverence.

David Starr Jordan grew up as any other American boy of his time did, back in the east on a farm. He became a naturalist, then a teacher and ended his active career as the president of a great university. We knew him in this latter position.

Dr. Jordan in all of his dealings as president of Stanford University was a friend of his boys and girls who came as students. They used to call it the farm and Dr. Jordan was just a big hearted advisor. He founded and guided an educational institution that has become one of the greatest of the land. Through his associations he has helped to make a better manhood and womanhood in California. Now in the fullness of years he is resting and enjoying life at Stanford. We consider Dr. Jordan one of the really great men that the nation has produced. He had a big job and he put it over in a big way, but always with a simple kindly spirt.

A COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

We are informed that a new chamber of commerce has been formed by the business men of Burlingame to put before the people of the world Burlingame's many attractions. There is probably no section of the country that has more natural beauties and attractions that has Burlingame and its rapid growth shows that people appreciate the fact. We believe, however, that there should be one good strong chamber of commerce for all of San Mateo County. We do not care where it is located but it should be a body that would boost for the whole of this section. We could become one of the most marvelous counties in the world with the proper advertising.

There is no place that is more blessed than we are. We have every natural advantage. Rail and water meet in our boundaries. The Pacific Ocean is on one side, the San Francisco bay is on the other, and a great railroad terminates practically in our midst. We have room for expansion. We have an ideal climate. We have the most beautiful scenery in the state. We have as fine a school system as can be found anywhere. We have fine roads. There isn't anything that we can't give. We need good advertising to show the world that we are on the job and want good live people to come and live with us.

The board of trustees of Redwood City are about to begin a concentrated campaign against one of the most destructive pests which the Pecific Coast has ever had to combat, the Argentine ant. The very minuteness of this insect makes it hard to deal with, and the fact that it now exists in uncounted millions, that no home is free from it, and that it is destroying animal life and human food in vast quanities makes it imperative that it be combatted. The board could take no more popular move, could do nothing more useful for their town, and should meet with the co-operation of every citizen and every organization in their endeavor.

BUSINESS MEN

To the successful businessmen of this section who have outgrown financially their present homes. A successful businessman is one who has made what he has, and has saved a good per cent of what he has made, or one who has successfuly handled an inheritance.

A good business man as a rule first has a small modest home, but the family will increase and as success financially comes to him he naturally out grows the small modest home and must, to keep in line with progress, have a larger and better home which is surrounded by the homes of other successful men.

You are not a success in life unless you do progress and there is a new beginner who wants your first modest home, so get out of it and give the new beginner his chance.

Graceland Park offers you modern conveniences such as Electricity, Gas, Telephone, City Water, Mail Delivery and Good Roads, together with desirable surroundings. Also offers you an opportunity to buy your new location in a section that will prove a good investment financially, your children will be able to realize a handsome increase for the land, which is seldom the case in residential property.

Terms are cash, but the owner will finance you to the extent of the purchase price of your location to help build your $7,500.00 home which are the restrictions in Graceland Park.

The property can be shown you by the owner

Cleaning Without Odor by the
F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening "gasoline" smell in your clothes

DR. ROY WOODHAMS TELLS OF MARVELOUS AFRICAN ADVENTURES

The Trip; the Native Market of St. Lucia; In the Toils of the Law; First Impressions of Cape Town: The Native Coachmen

LOCAL MISSIONARY RETURNED FROM AFRICA

Tells of Six Years Spent Among the Natives of Congo And their Peculiar Customs

It was Sunday, the close of our first Sunday at sea; a new moon broke through the clouds which lay low over the western horizon, and the stars in myriads, like twinkling jewels, shown overhead. We had sailed from New York four days before. It was early in March when we left the harbor, and the day had been rainy and foggy. Fog and mist, however, had been left behind, and now in the warm waters of the Gulf stream we were traveling day after day under the bluest of skys, and in a sea as smooth and balmy as a summer breeze.

Behind us lay leagues of blue and white water and the land we knew and called home—before us more water and Africa, the land of which we knew so little, but were to learn much, before the little arc of moon, appearing now like the crescent of Mohammed on the horizon, should wax and wain through its next twelve cycles.

But even here in the middle of the Atlantic Sunday was not forgotten and we gathered in the little cabin of the ship for a gospel meeting. There was a large Red Cross party bound for Palestine on board, about fifteen were ex-missionairies and they with about a dozen of the rest of us gathered each morning for prayer.

Another week elapsed and we found ourselves in St. Lucia. It was a preliminary introduction into what we expected to see in Africa. We stayed there about twenty-four hours and were allowed to go ashore. The little village has a wonderful situation, nestled down among the hills, covered with tropical growth of a peculiar light green. Here and there a cocoanut palm stands out taller than the other growth, and it is most beautiful.

The town is far cleaner than any town I have seen in the United States. It is populated almost entirely by natives except the British troops, who certainly see that the town is kept clean.

The native market is a large barn-like building, like the gymnasium at home, but larger. From the outside one might imagine he was coming to a monkey house from the chattering. Inside the women bring their vegetables, fruit and nuts; put them in piles on the floor for sale. It is a strange looking assortment, and most interesting. We saw several things in their original state, which before we had only seen in cans, as nutmeg, cinnamon and vanilla beans. The nutmegs are in a thick green husk, like a walnut, and bursting open show a crimson red filiagree work across the nut. We bought a dozen lemons for 6d (12c). Next we walked to the botanical gardens, and they were beyond description. Even California can not compare in production with this place.

A small boy acted as our guide, and he carried our packages, coming back. Coming through town a native policeman grabbed our boy by the collar, demanded the bag and said he had no business following us. Quite a jabber followed, and no word of ours was listened to, while we tried to explain that we wanted him to guide us. The boy began to cry and holler, and the policeman got him by the belt and collar and started off for the police station. A by-stander said we could go to the police station, and say he was our guide. We followed down the narrow street, and now a crowd of natives gathered around who poked fun at the poor boy who was still in tears. At the station I explained the situation to the English police judge, who laughed and said that justice in St. Lucia may go from the sublime to the ridiculous, and apologized for putting us to so much trouble. So we went on our way and at the dock gave the boy 6d for his trouble.

We now left St. Lucia to the north and continued our journey toward the antartic. On the first of April we crossed that famous imaginary line, known as the equator. The ship did not bump on it or get tangled up or anything, nor did we see the camel. In fact, the water looked the same as it had for several days. We passed from spring into autumn in the time it takes to step over a line. It was not uncomfortably warm here.

The colors of the tropical sunsets are wonderful. I have seen sunsets in California and they were fine, but the colors of the sky with the sun setting in the ocean are certainly wonderful.

A few days later we anchored in Cape Town. A large flat mountain raises directly back of the town and we could see the little houses made littler by comparison shining in the sun.

After landing we toook an auto ride around the mountain which took in the city's suburbs and the farming districts. The scenery was wonderful, and every thing was growing in tropical style. Plants which grow in hot houses in the United tates cover the hillsides here.

The natives are not nearly so much in evidence at Cape Town as in St. Lucia. They wear strange red felt hats with no brim, just a cylinder about four inches high.

The strangest sight in Cape Town are the English one-horse hacks. The driver, a native, sits on a high seat back of the top, and the lines pass over the top. Street cars are all double deck and very high, taller than the exposition automobiles, and open all around, above and below.

On our ride we passed twelve rugged peaks, called the Twelve Apostles and on the opposite side of Table Mountain was Devil's Peak. These are all visible from the ocean as we approached, as was also a formation known as the Lion. Sir Walter Drake is said to have written of Table Mountain: "For grandeur unsurpassed, the world's circumference round." It rises almost perpendicularly 3,500 feet.

Nothing, however, that we saw in Cape Town can compare with the odd sights that greeted us in Durban but space does not permit me to tell here of men who wear horns and porcupine quills, so this must be put off to the next chapter.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

The mortal remains of William A. Doyle, prominent resident of Menlo Park for forty years, were tenderly laid away beside relatives that had gone before, in Holy Cross cemetery last Monday morning, following a requiem mass celebrated in the Church of the Nativity where he devoutly knelt in prayer every Sunday in life. A large cortege of friends and relatives followed the remains to their last resting place. The vast number of floral tributes, those tender emblems of love, attested the esteem in which the deceased was held in the community in which he had lived so long. W. A. Doyle came from San Mateo with his family to Menlo Park as a boy of fifteen. Here he passed his boyhood and resided continuously until the Death Angel summoned him last Friday morning in his fifty-fifth year. After his graduation from the grammar school he entered the firm of Duff & Doyle, remaining with the grocery firm until it retired from business several years ago. For a number of years he represented the San Francisco papers. Of late he had been engaged in the real estate business. Mr. Doyle was a prominent Native Son and for twenty-five years had been the treasurer of Menlo Parlor. Five brothers had preceeded him to the grave. His remaining brother, Rev. James Doyle S. J. of St. Louis, was unable to attend the funeral but sent a tender telegram of condolence to the family. His mother passed away some two years ago. Besieds his wife he is survived by his aged father, James R. Doyle and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Ahlert and Mrs. Charles Brady. Father McFadden, a classmate and friend of Rev. James Doyle of St. Louis, who happened to be on the coast and hearing of the death attended the funeral. He gave much spiritual consolation to the bereaved family. The following old-time friends of the deceased acted as pall bearers, John Wisnom, James G. Mason, George Walsh, Harry Morey, Henry Walsh and F. P. Roach. W. A. Doyle was liked and loved by all who knew him. He was honest and upright and beloved for his numerous good qualities of heart and mind. His bereaved wife feels grateful for all the assistance offered her by kind and devoted friends in her trying times. Such devotion can never be forgotten by her. The sympathy of the community goes out to her and the grief stricken father, brothers and sisters.

The unfortunate affair of the McKendry ranch last Friday evening which ended in the death of Archie McKendry vividly recalls the distinguished career of his father, the late Colonel McKendry who came here in the early seventies, after his retirement from the regular army. He erected an attractive home for his family consisting of his wife, a daughter and Archie, then a small boy, on the McKendry ranch. The Colonel was a dashing cavalry officer and during the Civil war won his spurs on many a battlefied. He built a pretentious stable, a portion of which was equipped as quarters for Bess, a coal black mare, a perfect specimen of equine beauty, that was ridden by the Colonel throughout the war. Bess was with the Colonel on his March to the Sea with Sheridan, and was with him at the famous cavalry charge on the bloody battlefield at Gettysburg and at Antietam, the faithful old mare did her part with the brave Colonel. McKendry brought Bess here from Washington, tenderly caring for her in her declining years and giving her every attention. When Bess passed to the animal kingdom above, the Colonel was heartbroken and wept like a child. His friend of the battlefield was gone. Bess was tenderly laid away in the orchard and a suitable headstone erected, but time has removed it so that the last resting place of the old mare that helped to make history is now unknown. Faithful Bess and her proud and tender master are sleeping far removed from the scenes of the battlefields over which they dashed in youth, following Old Glory to victory. Young Archie as a boy of ten heard his father tell of the battle fierce and wild of the Civil war and wanted to become a soldier. He attended a military school and knew tactics well. When the Spanish-American war broke out he volunteered his services to organize a home guard in Menlo Park. He secured many recruits and every night in Triumph hall he would train the embryo soldiers. The late Murtha Doyle was the captain of the guard, and the late Thomas A. Casey, lieutenant and W. A. Carnduff and W. T. Casey, petty officers. The Menlo Park Home Guard was the best trained of any in the state. If ever the Spanish fleet attempted to land soldiers at Halfmoon Bay it would have found a strong resistance in the home guard headed by the valiant young Colonel McKendry. The elder McKendry died in the eighties, leaving a large estate divided between the son and daughter, who died some years ago. McKendry was a kind hearted, good man who deserved a better fate.

At a meeting of Menlo Parlor, N. S. G. W. held Thursday evening, Roland Midgley was elected treasurer of the parlor, a position held by the late W. A. Doyle for over a quarter of a century. Mr. Midgley has been a member of the organization for many years.

The engagement is announced of Frances Pringle and George McDonald. Miss Pringle is the pretty and accomplished daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Edward J. Pringle, formerly residents of Atherton, where the bride-to-be was a great favorite. Mr. McDonald is a young Scotchman who, with his brother, Mr. James McDonald, came to San Francisco to live from Glasgow two years ago, and is the son of Mrs. John Parker of Glasgow. He was a lieutenant in the British navy for a number of years and resigned after the war.

Mrs. Kurtz, proprietor of the Woman's Exchange, is well pleased with the patronage given the exchange on Saturday, the opening day and all week following. Those who purchased the delicious cakes and pies spoke glowingly of Mrs. Kurtz's cooking. Today there will be a special sale of angel cake and lemon pies. Try these pies.

Mr. and Mrs. James McSheehy came down from the city to attend he funeral of W. A. Doyle on Monday. They were friends of the deceased for many years. Mr. McSheehy was a candidate for the mayoralty at the late election in San Francisco.

Mrs. Florence Moore will leave from New York for Europe on February 16 and will be gone for some months visiting the principal cities of the continent. The attractive Moore home on Valparaiso avenue is one of the show places of Menlo Park.

Robert Britton, young son of Superintendent Britton of the Bear Gulch Water Company, met with a painful accident last Saturday while on a visit to his grandmother in Oakland. He was playing tag with other boys on the street near his grandmother's home when he was run over by a passing automobile. The boy suffered a compound fracture of the left leg. He was removed to the Providence hospital, where the bones were set. He was brought home by his father on Wednesday and will be confined to his home for six weeks.

El Encanto, the new restaurant and confectionery store in the Maloney block, opened under the most favorable auspices last Saturday. Many patrons visited the attractive place where all receive quick service and courteous treatment. Two pretty brown-eyed maids are always on the alert to serve customers. Filoucheau and Hamilton are the proprieors of the new resort.

Edward Doyle, brother of Mrs. Thomas Cochrane, passed away at his home in Oakland Thursday from a stroke of paralysis. He left here the fore part of the week feeling apparently well and was taken sick on his arrival home. Mr. Doyle has visited his sister here off and on for a number of years. He was a member of the Oakland fire department for a long time. The funeral will take place today. Interment is to take place in Holy Cross cemetery, Menlo Park, where his parents and sisters are buried.

J. B. Felix, superintendent of streets of Atherton, is engaged in cleaning up the avenues and by-ways, removing all waste paper, rubbish and debris. The streets of Atherton will soon be models of cleanliness, free from grass and other objectionable objects. Since Atherton incorporated, property there has advanced fifty per cent. This is due to the wise legislation of the trustees.

Mrs. Peter Cherighlo, a pioneer of Menlo Park, is very low at her home on Oak Grove avenue. Her death is momentarily expected. Her physician holds out very little hope for her recovery. Mrs. Cherighino is well known and liked and her friends hope she may pass over the crisis.

The marriage of Mrs. Atherton Macondray of Palo Alto and William Otis Edmands of Lake county was announced last Saturday. Mrs. Macondray is a lovable woman, admired by a large circle of friends on the peninsula. As a bride of Atherton Macondray, she came to live in Menlo Park in one of the Russell cottages, when she was still in her teens. The beautiful young bride at once won the hearts of the people of Menlo Park who have even since had a kindly feeling for her and now wish her every success and happiness in her betrothal to her girlhood friend. Mr. Macondray died several years ago. Miss Inez Macondray and the latter's aunt, Mrs. P. Moore, will leave for Europe on February 23 for a brief sojourn on the continent.

A meeting of the Menlo Park chapter of the National Council of Catholic Women was held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of General C. A. Devol on Santa Cruz avenue. Important business was transacted and a series of card parties was planned to help enlarge the fund for charitable purposes, this being the object of the organization.

Among those present were: Mrs. Joseph A. Donohue, president; Mrs. C. A. Deyol, secretary; Mrs. A. W. Mrs. Bernadette Clark, Mrs. Mark McCann, Mrs. E. P. Mahoney, Mrs. J. E. Reiter, Mrs. H. Derry, Mrs. M. J. McCarthy and Mrs. Leslie Brown.

POPULAR REDWOOD CITY GIRL ANNOUNCES HER ENGAGEMENT

That Cupid does not overlook his assistant who fills in the dotted lines of the marriage license register was made known last Monday, when Miss Georgia Porter, deputy in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese, announced her engagement to Lisle Winter. Both of the young people are well known in Redwood City, and have a host of friends here, to whom the announcement was a pleasant, but not altogether an unexpected one.

Miss Porter has been a deputy in the office of the county clerk for about a year. She was formerly employed by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company. Lisle Winter is the son of Mrs. Mary Winter of Redwood City and is employed by the Pacific Portland Cement Company at their new plant here as a draughtsman.

Monday's announcement did not include the date set for the wedding, but it is rumored that it will occur early this spring.

OPTIMISM

"Build for yourself a strong box;
Fashion each part with care.
Fit it with chain and padlock;
Pack all your worries there.
Hide therein all your troubles,
As each little cup you quaff,
Pack all your failures within it,
And sit on the lid and laugh."
